PROPHECY AND TONGUES

1Co 14:1 [illegible] [illegible]; [illegible] [illegible]; [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible].

Follow after charity - Pursue love 1Co_13:1; that is, earnestly desire it; strive to possess it; make it the object of your anxious and constant solicitude to obtain it, and to be influenced by it always.

Desire spiritual gifts - which may add to your worldly consequence, and please your carnal minds - but labor rather to get the gifts of God’s Spirit, by which ye may grow in grace, and be useful to others.

particularly desire that ye may prophesy - that ye may be able to teach and instruct others in the things of their salvation. He exhorts them that they should earnestly desire these gifts of the Spirit, but rather that they might prophesy. Prophesying after the apostolic was the highest gift. It enabled them to foretell things to come, and to teach the word of God to the people. When they sought this gift, they qualified themselves to receive and practice its teachings.
